Positions:

Energy coordinator

This requires a person who can and will wake up early every morning to wake everyone else up. In addition to that you need to write schedule on a big piece of butcher paper to tape up to the lodge and lead spirit circle. You are advised not to stay up late every night and usually the position is combined with another staff position since the energy coordinator job is needed mainly in the morning. You are also responsible for maintaining the energy of the camp. You definitely should be a high-energy person.

Social Action coordinator

This should be an open minded person who has resources ready for social action events at camp. You need to remember to find some form of social action that would be interesting to the whole community and not only you. The social action should also pertain to the theme of the camp.

Touch group coordinator

This position is good for a first time staff member.

You quickly learn people's names and you need to be able to come up with creative titles for touch groups that are related to the theme of camp. You will provide the touch groups with fun and interesting community building activities. You also need to attend your touch group to set an example.

Special events

As the special events coordinator you need to make sure special events like the auction, talent show and overnights are planned and fun. Remember you don't need a special event every night and try to make the events as enjoyable for everyone as possible.

Worship Coordinator

If you are applying for this position you need to already have some ideas of worships to do. You need a lot of resources to draw from to make the worship and be sure to make the worship enjoyable for everyone. Be prepared to put a lot of effort into this position.

Secret buddies

Another position that is good for first time staff members. Your position is mostly on the first day or two to get the names of people who want buddies and then giving the names to the secret buddies. Some people are just lazy or are douche bags and won't give their buddy anything, you can't avoid it, but you need to find a way to bring that to a minimum.

T-shirts

This position is good for first time staff members, but you need to remember that unless you set aside a time to do the t-shirts you're going to most likely need to make the shirts during the banquet. It's advised to recruit a task force to help you with the shirts.

Week-book coordinator

This position needs a person who knows everyone's name or could easily memorize them and likes to take pictures. It's also good to get to know as many people as possible so that you can give them good superlatives. You will need to bring a camera.

Environment coordinator

This is the person who deals with how disgusting humans are. You'll need to coordinate the work project and you're the person people come to when the toilet is plugged, a light is broken, the lodge is dirty, one of the stair steps to the porch broke, or a room smells like the gateways to hell. You are in no way required to clean up or fix anything, but you need to go tell the people who do need to.

Male Chaplin/Female Chaplain

This position needs someone who people can easily open up to. It is good, but not required, to have some previous experience with helping people. You also need to go to every rap, since you will be leading the rap.

The Hook up Coordinator

This person will be everyone on staffs extra hand. Because sometimes when a staff member needs help; there is no one to help him/her. This staff person needs to be able not to get tired, EVER!!!! IF Someone on staff needs help in the morning, you will help. But, this position is not going to be abused by other staff members to get out of their work. You are a last minute option when no other staff person is available. You will most likely be helping every person on staff, example set up dinner or lunch if no one there. Or, set up decorations for the dance. Help set up tables for the carnival. You must be able to hook up any staff member with help and a bag of chips.
